The project.

Apollo Global Management is a leading global investment firm, with offices in major financial centres around the world. For this project, located close to Central Park, a high-quality washroom solution was required for one of multiple floors within the building.

Working with our US partners, European Cubicles, Venesta supplied Infinite cubicles in Weathered Grey, finished with brass hardware. The specification needed to suit a premium office environment, bringing together strong design, lasting durability and a refined finish.

The result is a smart, contemporary washroom space that sits comfortably within the building's high-end corporate setting. Weathered Grey brings warmth and texture to the clean interior scheme, while the brass hardware adds a subtle, considered detail.

The challenge.

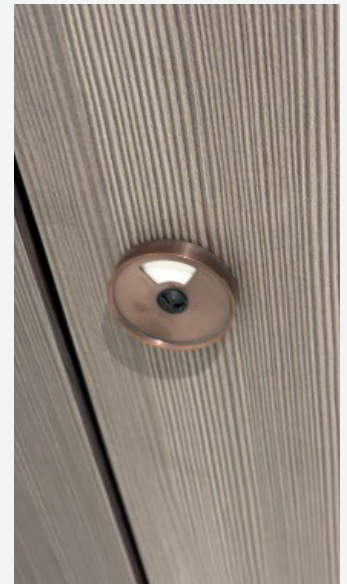

For a high-profile commercial building in central New York, the restrooms needed to deliver both style and long-term practicality.

The design had to feel polished and professional, without being overly decorative. It also needed to work across a wider multi-floor project, where consistency, durability and finish quality were all important.

Privacy was another key consideration. The cubicle system needed to create a strong, enclosed feel while maintaining a clean, architectural appearance.

The solution.

With 34 laminate finishes to choose from, Infinite gives architects and designers the freedom to tailor restrooms to any project vision, whether that means bold contrast, natural depth or a timeless neutral palette.

Full-height Infinite stalls in Weathered Grey give the restroom a sleek, modern feel, with the vertical woodgrain bringing depth and texture to the space. Against the white tiles and pale flooring, the darker finish creates a strong but understated contrast. The brass hardware adds a refined finishing detail, softening the overall scheme and giving the washrooms a warmer, more considered feel.

We engineered Infinite to perform in demanding environments. High Pressure Laminate (HPL) resists scratches, impact and heat, ensuring long-lasting durability. Our stainless steel hardware, including lever-operated indicator bolts with an emergency release mechanism, combines safety, security and ease of use with a premium feel.

The result is a smart, durable and elegant washroom space, well suited to a prestigious New York City commercial environment.
